exchanges and chromosomal aberrations in human lymphocytes. Alkylating agents were tested for their capacity to induce chromosomal aberrations and sister-chromatid exchanges (SCEs) in human lymphocytes. The order of magnitude of their effects on these two endpoints, when compared with that of X-rays, is SCEs >> chromosomal aberrations. The alkylating agents are in this respect similar to X-rays. Whereas DNA alkylation by the agents is reduced if the cells are preincubated with the agents, this effect does not diminish the cytotoxicity. The compounds do not interfere with the assay system and their capacity to induce SCEs seems to be independent of their capacity to induce chromosomal ab

What's New In Extract Meta Tags From Multiple Websites Software?
